Concerning Soil Tillage

After the ground is plowed, it should be disced and harrowed until all lumps are finely pulverized. This is because the delicate plant roots cannot penetrate hard lumps and are, therefore, deprived of much plant food. Tillage increases the availability of plant food elements by changing the arrangements of soil particles and bringing together those that have not before been in contact. It also changes the relation of the soil with air, water, salts and acids in the soil, making available plant food that would otherwise remain dormant.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Reception Day April 15, in First District and Forest Avenue Will Be Marked By Most Pleasing Exercises.

On Thursday afternoon, April 15, Reception Day will be held at the First District and Forest Avenue Buildings. All patrons and friends are cordially invited to attend these entertainments, where the pupils' work will be on display. The principals and teachers of the different buildings have worked faithfully to make this reception day more instructive and entertaining than any preceding one, and this is one day we expect the patrons and friends to come to the schools and show their interest in the work that is being done by teacher and pupil.

First District.

At the First District Building, beginning at 1 o'clock, Misses Hurd and Nash will have their programs combined, and the children of the first, second and third grades will give recitations, drills, songs and dialogues, finishing with a May-pole dance. At 2:15 Mrs. Marsh and Miss Lloyd will have their program, consisting of songs, recitations and plays dramatized by the children. Both of these programs are very interesting and entertaining, and the work that is on display is certainly a credit, both to the children and to the teachers.

Forest Avenue.

The Reception Day at the Forest Avenue Building will be unique, in that it will consist of a pageant displaying in costume and characterizing in manners the significant events of American history from early days down to the present. The different rooms will appear before the visitors in the auditorium on the second floor. Each succeeding room will add its part to the development of the general theme, such that the visitors may see the entire development of our country's history unfolding before them in panoramic form.

The work will be on exhibition in the various rooms, and the parents are asked to inspect not only the work of their children, but that of all the rooms.

Reception Day will also be held in the Sixth Ward and the Center Grade Buildings on Friday, further account of which will be given in tomorrow's paper.

GAEBKE-BRESLIN

Beautiful Ceremonies This Morning
Uniting Popular Young Couple.

This morning at 6 o'clock in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends, Miss Martha Gaebke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Gaebke, was united in marriage to Mr. John Andrew Breslin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Breslin, at St. Patrick's church, by Rev. Father P. M. Jones, pastor. They were attended by Miss Rose Lynch and Mr. Lad C. Gaebke, brother of the bride.

The wedding ceremony was the usual beautiful service of the Catholic church, music being furnished by the Sisters of St. Francis, who, as the bride party marched down the aisle, played Ichengrin's Wedding March. The bride was attired in a Belgian blue traveling suit, hat and gloves to match, while the bridesmaid wore Belgian blue taffeta costume, with hat and gloves to match. The groom wore a conventional traveling suit.

Immediately after the ceremony the party hurried away to the C. & O. depot and took train No. 5 for a short honeymoon trip to Chicago and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. Breslin upon their return will go to housekeeping on East Second street in the Fifth Ward.

The Ledger extends congratulations to this happy young couple. May they live long and prosper.

SHALL PERCY HALY OWN AND CONTROL TWO PARTIES?

The Louisville Evening Post of Friday, in an editorial carrying the caption, "The Democrats of Kentucky," said in part:

"Torn by dissension, divided in council, not clear in purpose the Democrats of Kentucky for years missed opportunities of leadership, and in local conflicts wasted strength in disputing about the saloons that would have made them the leaders in great national movements.

"Finally, in 1911, the Democrats adopted a plain, unequivocal proposition for the settlement of the liquor question and pledged the party to the redemption of the promises of the state constitution.

"On that platform the party won a signal victory in 1911, and in 1914 elected Mr. Beckham Senator because of the enemies he had made, because of the betrayal of the party in his person, and because he had fought the fight that had resulted in a signal victory.

"The state is now to be disturbed by a question that the state supposed it had twice settled. It is to be diverted from other measures of reform to a reconsideration of the question of prohibition. It is asked to abandon the safe ground, the sound principles, the county unit law, and to embark upon a new experiment of state wide prohibition.

"We think that is a great mistake as a measure for the promotion of temperance. Through the education of public opinion and through the direct responsibility to which each county can subject its own chosen officers, it is possible to secure effective regulation of the saloon. It has not been secured elsewhere on any other basis."

The distinguished editor of the Evening Post is a victim of misplaced confidence.

He is disappointed with Mr. Beckham. He is disappointed in Percy Haly. And that he has permitted himself thus to be deceived and humiliated does no credit to the sound judgment which he has frequently displayed in political matters.

Forgetting other campaigns and other years, the editor of the Evening Post in 1914 trusted to the honesty and the sincerity of Mr. Beckham and Percy Haly and followed them in the successful campaign which Mr. Beckham made for United States Senator.

Mr. Beckham and Mr. Haly knew then, as they know now, that the Evening Post was opposed to state wide prohibition of the liquor traffic. The Evening Post had every reason to believe that Mr. Beckham and Mr. Haly were likewise opposed to state wide prohibition. They were in absolute control of the General Assembly in the spring of 1914 and could have forced the resolution providing for a vote on a constitutional amendment which would have made state wide prohibition possible, but they did not attempt to secure the adoption of such a resolution.

Later, during the Senatorial campaign, Mr. Beckham and Mr. Haly knowingly accepted the personal and financial support of men directly engaged in the liquor traffic, and these men, presuming upon what they regarded as at least a gentleman's agreement, had a right to believe that Mr. Beckham and Mr. Haly were opposed to state wide prohibition.

Like the editor of the Evening Post, they assumed that had Mr. Beckham and his political manager, Haly, been in favor of state wide prohibition, they would have made that fact manifest by attempting to secure the adoption of a constitutional amendment resolution during the session of the General Assembly which passed the amended county unit bill, and for the passage of which they claimed, and the Evening Post accorded them, full credit. Good faith would have prompted such an effort by men consumed with a burning desire to promote the moral welfare of their state.

Having accepted the loyal and enthusiastic support of the editor of the Evening Post, and the aid of a considerable element of the men engaged in the liquor trade, under circumstances which must have placed positive political obligations upon Mr. Beckham and Mr. Haly, the Evening Post and others interested naturally expected that these men would not, as the Post suggests, now "disturb the state with a question which the state supposed it had twice settled."

The reader will please bear in mind, however, that the foregoing observations are not the outgrowth of any indignation entertained by the Leader on account of the causes which led to the widening split in the Democratic party in Kentucky. Nothing short of this could reasonably have been anticipated.

What concerns the Leader at this particular juncture is the maneuvering which Percy Haly is doing to control not only the Democratic party, but the Republican party also.

At Mayfield, on the 19th of this month, Senator Beckham and Judge O'Rear will speak from the same platform for the announced purpose of promoting the cause of state wide prohibition.

This discussion ostensibly is under the auspices of the Kentucky branch of the Anti-Saloon League, of which Dr. N. A. Palmer is the Superintendent, but no man who is in the slightest degree acquainted with the circumstances doubts for a moment that Percy Haly is the actual manager of this movement and that he is endeavoring to bring about a situation within the Republican party which will make certain the election of his candidate for Governor, Harry McChesney.

Dr. Palmer, in a letter sent broadcast throughout Kentucky two weeks ago endorsing the candidacy of Mr. McChesney, concluded as follows:

"In view of the very great influence exercised over all elections by Sheriffs and Election Commissioners, all Democrats holding these offices should be seen at once and interested in Mr. McChesney's nomination."

One can easily imagine that a man who prefaces his signature by the phrase, "Sincerely yours, in His Name," if as guileless as his cloth would declare him to be, might easily have needed the assistance of Percy Haly in penning the sentence just quoted. The note of caution here sounded brings to mind the details of the Beckham-McCreary primary. The "great influence" exercised over all elections by sheriffs and election commissioners is indeed well known.

In view of the experience which the Evening Post and some of the liquor men of different sections of Kentucky have had with Senator Beckham and Percy Haly, it is submitted that their present deep concern regarding the moral welfare of the people of Kentucky, reinforced though it may be by Doctor Palmer, should be well tested by every known acid before it is accepted without great misgivings.

It is this lack of confidence in the subterranean manipulations of Percy Haly which causes the Leader to regret the part which its friend, Judge O'Rear is playing in the Mayfield engagement.

Judge O'Rear has been a life-long Republican and has been honored by the Republican party with a nomination for Governor.

That he has a perfect right to advocate state wide prohibition will not be questioned for a moment, and the Leader would be the last to criticize him unkindly or to question his sincerity with respect to this or any other conviction which he might entertain or make public.

It is quite possible that the coming Republican platform convention may endorse the position taken by Judge O'Rear and give him full opportunity to vote for a Republican nominee on a platform which will contain a state wide plank, and the Leader would cheerfully join hands with Judge O'Rear in supporting the ticket, although, for reasons already stated, the Leader would frame the temperance plank in the platform somewhat differently, but still in the interest of good morals and for the general welfare.

What grieves the Leader is that a Republican of Judge O'Rear's standing, and a Republican who has been so signally honored by his fellows, has not confined his activities within his own party, but has made it possible for Percy Haly to point to the coming Mayfield performance not only as a tacit endorsement of the candidacy of Harry McChesney by an ex-Chief Justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals who is also a Republican, but also with the ulterior design of creating dissension in the Republican party.

It will not be believed for a moment that Judge O'Rear is a conscious participant in such a clever trick, but this will not lessen the effect which the Mayfield engagement will have upon the minds of many persons.

Percy Haly is very "smooth," but in this instance has he not probably overstepped himself?

The Leader repeats, "Shall Percy Haly own and control two parties?"

Let the 230,000 Republicans of Kentucky make reply.—Lexington Leader.

ROOSEVELT AND 1916.

Senator Lodge, who has been most careful to keep on good terms with his friend, recently conferred with the Colonel in New York. According to the Washington correspondent of the Boston Globe—the former executive secretary of the Massachusetts Republican state committee—Mr. Lodge describes the ex-President as being in "fine form" and as ready to support almost any candidate nominated by the Republicans against Mr. Wilson in 1916. Mr. Lodge is firmly convinced that Mr. Roosevelt will not be a candidate for any nomination.—Springfield Republican.

What's Time To a Hog?

A northerner riding through the West Virginia mountains came up with a mountaineer leisurely driving a herd of pigs.

"Where are you driving the pigs?" asked the rider.

"Out to pasture 'em a bit."

"What for?"

"To fatten 'em."

"Isn't it pretty slow work to fatten 'em on grass? Up where I come from we pen them up and feed them on corn. It saves a lot of time."

"Yaas, I s'pose so," drawled the mountaineer. "But h—l, what's time to a hawg?"

"CINQUE HOMMES"

Name of Towboat To Be Changed To Luke McLuke.

Captain E. B. Suiter, owner of the ferry at Manchester owns a towboat that plies the Ohio river, which boat bears the name Cinque Hommes. The boat in the future will be used at the government dam, at Maysville. Captain Suiter will change its name to Luke McLuke, the name under which the versatile humorist writes in the Cincinnati Enquirer writes.

The name Cinque Hommes is a quaint one. Its derivation is as follows: In 1699 John Francis Benison de St. Cosme, a missionary priest and a native of Quebec, made a voyage down the Mississippi river, of which he gives an account in a letter addressed to the Bishop of Quebec, printed in John Gilmary Shea's "Early Voyages Down the Mississippi River." He landed and erected a cross there and blessed it and this point of land was called after him St. Cosme. The pronunciation of St. Cosme and "Cinque Hommes" is exactly the same in French and the early Frenchmen who came after this priest, misunderstanding, called it by the latter name which was never given. This is the correct explanation of the origin of "Cinque Hommes."

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES

Kidney Diseases Cause Many Aches and Pains of Maysville People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so may weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and generally when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills frequently come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards dropsy, gravel or fatal Bright's disease. When the kidneys fail there is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Maysville testimony is proof of their effectiveness.

Mrs. Annie McClellan, 541 W. Second St., Maysville, Ky., says: "I was often dizzy and nervous and my head ached. I had pain in my back and my kidneys were weak. Doan's Kidney Pills stopped the complaint immediately and made me well and strong."

Mrs. McClellan is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. McClellan had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. PROHIBITION OF TOBACCO.

[The following item was handed to us, having been clipped from the Courier-Journal of April 5, 1915. It is reproduced in its entirety without comment, as The Ledger desires to be fair on all questions.—Editor.]

(To the Editor of the Courier-Journal.)

Greatly appreciating the characteristic common sense that has pervaded your treatment of prohibition and prohibitionists, I am taking the liberty of calling to your attention that these overzealous people are not intent upon

Huff Humphrey and wife, of Sabitha, tucky, but tobacco as well. Perhaps the personnel of the forces that are arrayed against whisky are not identical, man for man and woman for woman with those who are fighting tobacco, but the facts give evidence that their methods are just the same and some of the anti-whisky organizations are distinctly anti-tobacco and all anti-whisky organizations are contributing their sympathy and moral support to the cause of prohibition of tobacco.

As a tobacco grower upon a more or less large scale, I have along with my neighbors, been deeply interested in the literature of the propaganda against tobacco, some of which has reached us in the rural routes during the winter. I have noticed particularly the pamphlet of Dr. Bruce Fink, professor of botany at Miami University at Oxford, O., which, aside from giving Dr. Fink's rather biased opinion that tobacco is a twin curse along with whisky, quotes no less than 100 other factual authorities from the same point of view.

Without presuming upon your valuable space to enter into any argument against the sweeping findings of the prohibitionists, either of whisky or tobacco, suffice that I am thoroughly convinced that the zealots dedicating their energies to the abolition of these two industries are painfully in error, it is nevertheless alarming to observe the destructive progression of prohibition. Once it was whisky; now it is whisky and tobacco, tomorrow it may be something else that the prohibitionists deem should be prohibited.

However, since the prohibitionists seem intent upon harassing the tobacco industry as they have already harassed the whisky industry, we are placed at extremes to know what we are to do. These are the principal of our commercial and manufacturing interests of the state of Kentucky, and if they are to be abolished we shall be forced to start over again without either source of revenue or means of livelihood, a very gloomy prospect I assure you.

I am just an ordinary Black Patch farmer, but I have been prone to wonder if the license assumed by the prohibitionists has not been permitted to proceed unmolested until we are about to enter another reign of blue laws wherein American liberty and personal initiative will be a by-word.

Prohibition has assuredly slipped up on the blind side of the whisky industry until billions of dollars' worth of property is in danger of confiscation, and now by the same means and methods, and I firmly believe, by the same ill-advised reformers, the tobacco industry is threatened.

I am persuaded that the time has arrived for those who have the industries of the state at heart to be alive to their defense. SETH MYERS, Route No. 6, Hopkinsville, Ky.

Beautiful Home For Sale

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson have placed with us for sale their new home on East Second street, in the Sixth Ward. This home is located on a large lot, 72x150 feet, and running back to Williams street. We will not make any attempt to describe this home in detail. It is built of pressed brick, with hardwood floors, basement under the entire house, slate roofing, hot water, furnace, gas all over the house, and in fact, is modern and complete throughout, and must be seen to be fully appreciated. This beautiful home has been admired by all who have seen it, and every Maysvillian is justly proud of such enterprising citizens, as the builders of this property. Mr. Dawson's health is such that his physician has advised him to spend his winters in the South, and for that reason he offers his home for sale at less than cost, $6,500.

FIFTY YEARS SINCE LINCOLN'S ASSASSINATION.

Washington, April 14.—Fifty years ago tonight at a few minutes before 11 o'clock, Washington was thrown into an intense excitement by the announcement that President Lincoln and Secretary Seward had been assassinated and were dead. The wildest excitement prevailed in all parts of the city. Men, women and children, old and young, rushed to and fro, and the rumors were magnified until they had nearly every member of the cabinet killed. Not until the following morning was it learned that Secretary Seward's wounds were not mortal and that the assassin of the President was the actor, J. Wilkes Booth.

Meanwhile the entire country had learned the news and north and south alike were completely stunned by the tragedy. The official dispatch giving the first announcement and the earliest details of the assassination was sent out shortly after midnight by Secretary of War Stanton.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Today Mr. Joseph H. Dodson Arrived in Maysville.

Fifty years ago today our honorable townsman, Mr. Joseph H. Dodson arrived in Maysville, after having escaped from the Union army, while being held as a Confederate prisoner. He arrived here penniless and while the country was in a state of uproar and mourning over the untimely death of President Abraham Lincoln, which occurred on the same day.

Immediately upon his arrival he sought employment, and started to work for the late O. H. P. Thomas, grandfather of our Jacob Thomas. From there he went to the First National Bank of Maysville, which had a paid-up capital of $300,000. He had the distinction of opening and closing the entries of this famous banking institution. He then engaged in the flouring mill business, having started the Maysville Flour Mills, and then went into the grain business, which he has followed for the past forty years.

Mr. Dodson married the daughter of the late David E. Roberts, and has several children by this union. He is one of Maysville's most successful business men and a student of the growth and improvements of his adopted home, by keeping a diary of its happenings more than forty years old.

He was born in a small town near Annapolis, Md., more than seventy-two years ago, and is in splendid health.

The Ledger congratulates Mr. Dodson and is proud of his achievements during his half-century as one of our citizens.

DEATH ANGEL

Calls Three: Sister Genevieve, Patrick Flanagan and Dr. Thomas R. James.

Sister Genevieve.

Georgetown, Ky., April 12.—Sister Mary Genevieve passed away Monday morning after but a week's suffering with pneumonia, death coming at Cardome, where she has been a faithful teacher since its organization forty years ago.

The sister was known as Miss Margaret O'Brien to the outside world, which she renounced when she was 18 years old. After graduating at the Maysville school, at which city she was born, she received a diploma in music in the Chicago Conservatory, also studying under a famous instructor on the violin.

She entered the Maysville convent, remaining there until Cardome was built, and has since been teaching both vocal and instrumental music at the celebrated academy.

Two brothers, Dr. J. J. O'Brien, of Chapman, Kas., and Dan O'Brien, of Maysville, and a sister, Miss Kate O'Brien, of Davenport, Ia., survive her. The funeral arrangements are awaiting the arrival of the sister.

Dr. Thomas Ross James.

The city was shocked last evening when the news spread that Dr. Thomas R. James had passed away at a few minutes past 5 o'clock, after only a few days' illness of pneumonia.

Dr. James was County Live Stock Inspector, and one of the leading veterinarians in the state. His death is a deep loss to his relatives and the county.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Charity Devin, and one son, Mr. Allie C. James, who was associated with him in the livery business here.

Dr. James was 75 years of age, and was born near Lewisburg, this county, April 10, 1840.

He has resided in the county nearly all his life, except a few years when he was in charge of a large southern plantation. He was a survivor of the Civil war and served several years in the Union army.

He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Willett, of Cynthia, and Miss Judith James, of New York City.

Dr. James was a member of the Baptist church, as were all his family.

Funeral Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late home in South Limestone street, with Rev. H. B. Wilhoite in charge.

Burial in the Maysville cemetery.

Patrick Flanagan.

Mr. Patrick Flanagan, a native and former resident of this city, died at St. Louis, Mo., Sunday night, aged about 62 years. The news came in a telegram to Captain James Dunn, who was a relative of the deceased.

"Patsy" Flanagan was a giant in build and thirty-five years ago he was the kids' ideal baseball player. He was a blacksmith, and it is said that since he left Maysville, nearly forty years ago, he accumulated a fortune.

His mother, Mrs. Bridget Flanagan, was a very popular Maysville woman, and highly respected.

Decensed leaves a wife and two daughters; also two sisters, Mrs. Bridget McKoy, of St. Louis, and Miss Maggie Flanagan, of Los Angeles, Cal.

The burial will take place Friday in the Catholic cemetery at St. Louis, although Mr. Flanagan's desire was to be laid to rest in St. Patrick's Catholic cemetery here.

Mrs. Pat King will leave Thursday for St. Louis to attend the funeral, as she was a very close friend of the Flanagan family.

QUITE DIFFERENT NOW.

Fifty years ago today the entire world was crazy over the assassination of President Lincoln and the surrender of General Lee. Today we're "tatty" over the opening of the baseball season.
